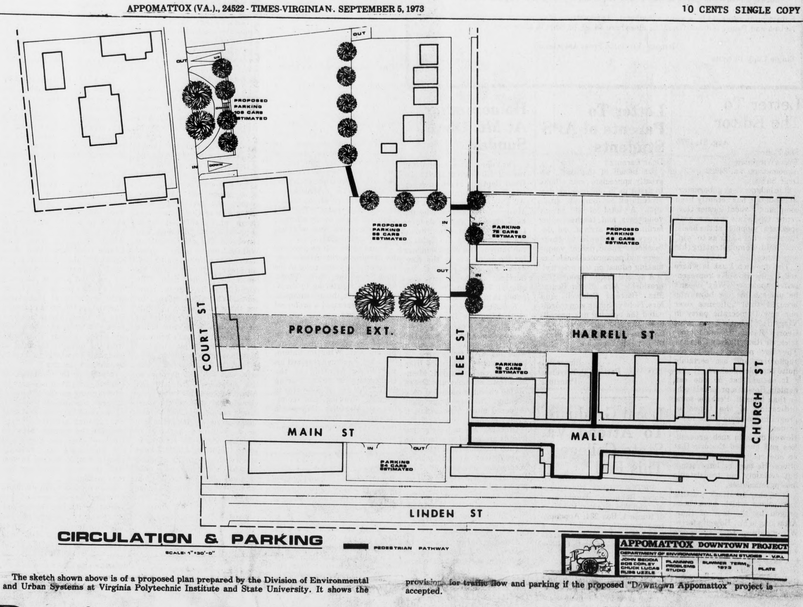
Local Squad Answers 42 Calls In August

During the month of August the Appomattox County Rescue Squad responded to a total of 42 emergency calls. Volunteers spent 164¾ hours in answer to these calls and traveled a total of 2146 miles.

Five persons were treated at the scene of two automobile accidents and four persons required oxygen. One of the more critical calls was answered on August 30th at 10:20 a.m. when two of the members of the ACRS responded to a call when a local man fell from the roof of a two story house, hit the roof of the porch and then became tangled up in a ladder before hitting the grounds. The victim sustained a broken neck, a broken back, head injuries and as of Tuesday morning was still unconscious and listed as critical. The men answering the call used an orthopedic stretcher so as not to move the person when transporting him to the ambulance, used sand bags to immobilize his head and neck and administered oxygen from the scene of the accident to the hospital.

Appomattox County is indeed fortunate to have such an outstanding rescue squad with every member trained and qualified to handle all types of emergency calls.

A breakdown of the August emergency calls is as follows: mental case, 1; child hit by car, 1; abdominal pains, 4; attempted suicide, 1; falls, 1; overdose, 3; cuts, 2; transports at request of doctor, 9; kidney stones, 2; stand-by, 1; strokes, 3; spear struck through hand, 1; sudden illness, 1; Diabetic shock, 1; maternity transport, 2; broken bones, 1; breathing difficulty, 3; wrecks, 2; burns, 1; call for person already treated, 1; and 1 heart attack.



The sketch shown above is of a proposed plan prepared by the Division of Environmental and Urban Systems at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. It shows the provisions for traffic flow and parking if the proposed "Downtown Appomattox" project is accepted.

'Appomattox Railroad Day' Set For November 4th

500 Passengers To Stop Here

"Appomattox Railroad Day" will be sponsored by the Town of Appomattox in conjunction with The Norfolk and Western Railway Company. The Roanoke Chapter, National Railway Historical Society; the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University; and local civic groups. A first for Appomattox, Railway Day will be held on Sunday, November 4, 1973, at the Railroad Station on Main Street in downtown Appomattox.

The autumn excursion train from Roanoke to Appomattox will carry 500 passengers and will stop in Appomattox for an hour or two hours, according to Donald W. MacPerson, Chairman, Appomattox Railway Day.

The highlight of the afternoon will be a ceremony for the turnover and dedication of the "Depot" to the Town of Appomattox from a representative of the N & W Railway. The turn-over of the depot together with the completion of the downtown study can mark the beginning of new direction for Appomattox on November 4th.

But Appomattox Needs Your Help! Now in the planning stage, Railroad Day requires volunteers to act as chair persons and committee members for various committees such as Welcoming, Advertisements and Brochures, Entertainment, Arts and Crafts, Safety, Depot Preparation and Decoration, Displays, Antiques, Refreshments, and etc.

And Railroad Day needs your ideas and comments! Listed below are some ideas being planned . . . add your ideas to the list: designation by town and county officials of "Appomattox Railroad Day", November 4, 1973; Depot dedication ceremony between N & W official and town mayor; clean up and paint old depot prior to November 4, 4-H and FFA volunteers; exhibit of Appomattox renewal plans and sketches; exhibit of railway paraphernalia by railway buffs; involvement of community groups and churches; press releases and advertisements; country western band, high school band, cheerleaders, majorettes; sale of railroad hats and patches by local civic organizations; sponsorship by RC, NRHC; VPI&SU Extension; Town and County; N&W; bake sale, hot dogs, beverages or other commercial activities by local groups; display and/or sale of local arts and crafts, antiques, farm products, farm implements; distribution of free souvenir brochure; local participation in excursion, Appomattox to Lynchburg; Railway sounds and songs played on PA system; downtown closed to auto traffic and bicycles; RR movies and photos; gospel singing and historic costumes.

Open House For Godwin Held

Republican gubernatorial candidate Mills E. Godwin, Jr., was in Appomattox Thursday night, August 30th, to attend open house after spending the day campaigning in Southside Virginia.

After greeting people for more than an hour, Godwin paused for a short talk, speaking to a crowd of more than 100 persons who were standing in hot humid weather outside the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Webster Babcock, who held the open house for Godwin.

"I'm not running for governor in order to maintain the status quo," Godwin said. He told the audience that Virginia must push forward, however "this cannot be done with the liberal left philosophy that is shared by my opponent and his close associates.

The GOP nominee said that after 25 years in politics he has gained a thick skin and does not mind the barbs that Howell has made about him to the press. But Godwin said it does bother him that Howell "can't find anything good to say about this state."

Godwin added that Howell is

Appomattox is a growing town - Appomattox is a growing county, shouldn't "Downtown Appomattox" be growing, too? That is the question that must be answered by the citizens of the entire county.

The "Downtown Appomattox" project, sponsored by the Town of Appomattox in cooperation with Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, if carried out, can restore downtown Appomattox using an historical theme that has unlimited potentials. Numerous other historic towns, with stores closed down and empty buildings lining their main streets, have been restored and are now alive with flourishing businesses, boutiques and gift shops. Downtown Appomattox can "come alive" if the citizens want it and are willing to become involved in the project.

In the early summer of 1973, interested citizens of the town of Appomattox, concerned with the loss of downtown trade to area shopping centers, approached the district extension agent, Mr. Donald MacPerson, for assistance in the development of programs to upgrade the downtown area and attract increased trade. Students and faculty of the Division of Environmental and Urban Systems at VPI & SU agreed to work with the citizens groups in developing a pilot study of Downtown Appomattox.

Tech students John Beddia and Bob Copley, Urban Design; and Chuck Lucas and Russ Uzzle, Urban Planning; under the supervision of Michael Cunningham, Professor of Urban Design at VPI & SU, working with MacPearson coordinated the pilot study. The Farmers National Bank of Appomattox made a donation to the students to cover expenses of the project.

Approximately 35 civic leaders, property owners of area considered, plus business owners attended a meeting last week chaired by H. B. Pack, Mayor of the Town of Appomattox, for the presentation by Dr. Cunningham and the Tech
